Wicked Weeds: A Zombie Novel Pedro Cabiya

"One of the most original and capable storytellers in the Caribbean." —Rubén Ríos Ávila

"Pedro Cabiya is an incredible intellectual and literary force in Caribbean letters." —Mayra Santos Febres

"Cabiya is pure genius . . . funny, provocative, unsettling, all at once." —Rita Indiana Hernández

A Caribbean zombie—smart, gentlemanly, financially independent, and a top executive at an important pharmaceutical company—becomes obsessed with finding the formula that would reverse his condition and allow him to become "a real person." In the process, three of his closest collaborators (cerebral and calculating Isadore, wide-eyed and sentimental Mathilde, and rambunctious Patricia), guide the reluctant and baffled scientist through the unpredictable intersections of love, passion, empathy, and humanity. But the playful maze of jealousy and amorous intrigue that a living being would find easy to negotiate represents an insurmountable tangle of dangerous ambiguities for our "undead" protagonist.

Wicked Weeds is put together from Isadore's scrapbook, where she has collected her boss' scientific goals and existential agony, as well as her own reflections about growing up as a Haitian descendant in the Dominican Republic and what it really means to be human. The end result is a precise combination of Caribbean noir and science-fiction, Latin American style.

Pedro Cabiya, author of the bestselling novels Trance and The Head and the seminal short story collection Historias tremendas, currently resides in the Dominican Republic, where he is Dean of Academic Affairs at the American School of Santo Domingo and Senior Producer at Heart of Gold Films.

Jessica Ernst Powell has published numerous translations of Latin American authors, including Jorge Luis Borges, César Vallejo, Adolfo Bioy Casares, and Silvina Ocampo.
